Form 990 (2012)

SCANNED DEC 17 2013

Part III Statement of Program Service AccomplishmentsCheck if Schedule O contains a response to any question in this Part III ☒1 Briefly describe the organization's mission:

The Foundation's core programs consist of providing (1) litigation services for nonprofit organizations and individuals whose fundamental constitutional rights have been, or are under threat of being, abrogated; and (2) legal and compliance consulting and services for nonprofit organizations, such that they become more efficient and better prepared to withstand legal and regulatory challenges.

2 Did the organization undertake any significant program services during the year which were not listed on the prior Form 990 or 990-EZ? ☐ Yes ☒ No

If "Yes," describe these new services on Schedule O.

3 Did the organization cease conducting, or make significant changes in how it conducts, any program services? ☐ Yes ☒ No

If "Yes," describe these changes on Schedule O.

4 Describe the organization's program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. Section 501(c)(3) and 501(c)(4) organizations are required to report the amount of grants and allocations to others, the total expenses, and revenue, if any, for each program service reported.4a (Code: 541100) (Expenses $ 874162 including grants of $ 336249) (Revenue $)

Provided litigation services to nonprofit organizations whose fundamental constitutional rights have been, or are under threat of being, abrogated. Additionally, volunteer attorneys contributed legal services for these cases valued at $75,000. The Foundation litigated 11 fundamental-rights cases in 2012.

1) Annex Medical, et al. v. Sebelius, et al. (D.C. Minn.). The Foundation represents Stuart Lind, his business Annex Medical, Inc., and businessman Tom Janas in a challenge to the U.S. Department of Health & Human Services' preventive services mandate, which requires that all employee group health plans must cover, free-of-charge, certain contraception and abortifacient drugs and services. Lind and Janas object to the mandated coverage as violative of their religious beliefs. The challenge, filed in November 2012, alleges that the preventive services mandate violates the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, the First Amendment, and the Administrative Procedures Act. ActRight Legal Foundation believes this case will serve as foundational precedent for other religiously-motivated business owners whose sincerely-held beliefs require that they be exempted from complying with the coverage requirements of the preventative services mandate.

The remaining ten cases are described in Attachment 1 to this 990.

4b (Code: 541100) (Expenses $ 122262 including grants of $) (Revenue $)

Provided legal and compliance consulting for nonprofit organizations. In 2012, ActRight Legal Foundation served more than 60 clients with their legal needs. Advising re a wide array of legal matters, the Foundation advises charities as well as individuals and organizations who are engaged in or seeking to become engaged in the exercise of their fundamental rights, particularly free speech. The Foundation attorneys advise re organization and reorganization, obtaining and maintaining tax-exempt status, employment/HR issue, contract review, property disputes, charitable solicitation requirements, issue advocacy compliance, etc. This program of ActRight Legal Foundation serves two largely underserved communities—the charitable sector (other than universities & hospitals) and those seeking to exercise of their fundamental rights. Most of our clients are unable to afford the highly-skilled advice that is most often found in large law firms, which usually charge hundreds upon hundreds of dollars per hour for their services. The Foundation serves the medical missions, homeless shelters, local churches, parochial schools, community foundations, and other charities. The objective of this program is to comprehensively advise our clients in furtherance of their charitable missions and/or their exercise of their fundamental rights. We measure success by the number of clients served, number of dollars redirected from administrative to mission-related activities among our clients, and other related metrics.

- 2) National Organization for Marriage, et al. v. McKee, et al. (U.S. District Court for the District of Maine)

In 2009, the Maine Commission on Governmental Ethics and Election Practices began investigating whether the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, violated Maine campaign finance laws by not registering and filing campaign reports as a ballot question committee. However, NOM did not engage in campaign activities in Maine, but simply made contributions to a Maine ballot question committee called Stand for Marriage Maine. While the Commission's investigation was pending, NOM, along with American Principles in Action ("APIA"), filed this action in federal court, challenging Maine's broad campaign finance regulations, including its definition of "ballot question committee," as violating the Constitutional guarantees of speech and of association. NOM and APIA's challenge succeeded against Maine's burdensome requirement that all independent expenditures over $250 be disclosed within twenty-four hours. ActRight Legal Foundation came on as lead counsel in April 2012 and assisted NOM and APIA in asking the Supreme Court of the United States to review the unsuccessful portions of their challenge. Unfortunately, the Supreme Court did not accept the case. ActRight Legal Foundation assisted the plaintiffs in recovering $32,193.78 in attorneys' fees and costs for their successful claim before the district court.

- 3) National Organization for Marriage, et al v. Maine Ethics Commission (State of Maine Law Court)

In 2009, the Maine Commission on Governmental Ethics and Election Practices began investigating whether the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, violated Maine campaign finance laws by not registering and filing campaign reports as a ballot question committee. However, NOM did not engage in campaign activities in Maine, but simply made contributions to a Maine ballot question committee called Stand for Marriage Maine. Nevertheless, the Commission proceeded with its investigation by serving subpoenas, which sought, among other things, the identities of those who donated $5000 or more to NOM. In response, NOM, Stand for Marriage Maine, and NOM's Executive Director Brian Brown (together, "Petitioners") petitioned the Commission to modify or vacate its subpoenas on the grounds that they sought information that would impermissibly chill protected First Amendment activity if disclosed. When the Commission denied their request, NOM sought relief from the Maine Superior Court, which found that the Commission did not violate the Petitioners' Constitutional rights in by refusing to modify or vacate the subpoenas. ActRight Legal Foundation successfully assisted the Petitioners in obtaining review of their case before the Maine Supreme Court. ActRight Legal Foundation continues to safeguard the liberties of NOM and its donors during the Maine Commission's investigation.

4) Maine Ethics Commission v. National Organization for Marriage, et al (State of Maine Superior Court)

In 2009, the Maine Commission on Governmental Ethics and Election Practices began investigating whether the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, violated Maine campaign finance laws by not registering and filing campaign reports as a ballot question committee. However, NOM did not engage in campaign activities in Maine, but simply made contributions to a Maine ballot question committee called Stand for Marriage Maine. Nevertheless, the Commission proceeded with its investigation by serving subpoenas, which sought, among other things, the identities of those who donated $5000 or more to NOM. In response, NOM, Stand for Marriage Maine, and NOM's Executive Director Brian Brown (together, "Petitioners") petitioned the Commission to modify or vacate its subpoenas on the grounds that they sought information that would impermissibly chill protected First Amendment activity if disclosed. When the Commission denied their request, NOM sought relief from the Maine Superior Court, which found that the Commission did not violate the Petitioners' Constitutional rights in by refusing to modify or vacate the subpoenas. The Maine Supreme Court has agreed to review Petitioners' case, but the Commission refuses to wait for a decision before proceeding with its investigation. In December 2012, the Commission filed a Motion for Initiation of Contempt Proceedings in Maine Superior Court, seeking to compel NOM's response to the Commission's subpoenas. ActRight Legal Foundation has opposed the motion on NOM's behalf, explaining that NOM is in compliance with its statutory requirements concerning the subpoenas. While NOM awaits a decision from the court, ActRight Legal Foundation continues to safeguard the liberties of NOM and its donors during the Maine Commission's investigation.

- 5) National Organization for Marriage v. Walsh, et al. (U.S. District Court for the Western District of New York, on appeal to the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit)

During the 2010 federal mid-term election campaign, the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, planned to run radio and television ads in New York that would inform the public of various legislative candidates' views on marriage. However, NOM did not run the ads out of concern that doing so would make it a "political committee" under New York campaign law and, therefore, subject it to myriad and onerous statutory registration and reporting requirements that impose burdens on First Amendment rights. NOM filed suit, asking the federal court to determine that its intended activities do not make it a political committee, and that the First Amendment permits it, and other similarly situated groups, to speak freely about political candidates and issues without reporting its campaign activity to the state. The court found that NOM's case was not ripe for decision and dismissed the case. NOM appealed the dismissal and the case is pending before the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. ActRight Legal Foundation came on as lead counsel in April 2012.

- 6) Family PAC v. McKenna, et al. (U.S. District Court for the Western District of Washington, fee petition order on appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit)

Family PAC formed as a political action committee in 2009 with the goal of advocating for traditional family values in Washington State by supporting or opposing ballot propositions. Its first project was to support a referendum aimed at overturning a bill that expanded domestic partnership benefits for same-sex couples. Another organization wanted to support Family PAC's campaign with a large contribution, but Washington law made it illegal for Family PAC to accept it simply because it exceeded $5000 and was to be made within 21 days of the election. Washington also requires Family PAC to publicly report certain personal information of any donor who contributed $25 or more. These laws placed a high burden on Family PAC's First Amendment rights by restricting the amount of money available for campaign speech during the most critical election period. Family PAC filed a lawsuit seeking to have Washington's laws declared unconstitutional. The court agreed that the $5000 contribution ban violated Family PAC's constitutional rights, but upheld the reporting requirements. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals confirmed these decisions and neither party sought review from the United States Supreme Court. Family PAC then sought and won an award of attorney fees and expenses in the amount of $146,073.12. The defendants have appealed the award to the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals. ActRight Legal Foundation came on as lead counsel shortly before attorney fees were awarded and is defending Family PAC's rights in the appeal. In May 2012, the Washington's Public Disclosure Commission ("PDC") filed a complaint against Family PAC, claiming that it violated Washington election law by not reporting as campaign contributions the pro bono legal services it received during the lawsuit. ActRight Legal Foundation is also working to safeguard Family PAC's liberties during this enforcement proceeding.

7) Warren Limmer, et al. v. Mark Ritchie, in his official capacity as Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota, et al. (Minnesota Supreme Court)

The Minnesota Constitution vests in the Minnesota Legislature and the People the exclusive right to amend the Minnesota Constitution. Yet during the summer of 2012, the Minnesota Secretary of State unilaterally changed the ballot question title for a proposed amendment to the Minnesota Constitution from the title duly proposed and adopted by the Minnesota Legislature to one of his own choosing. ActRight Legal Foundation assisted a coalition of state legislators and proponents of the proposed amendment filed a petition in the Minnesota Supreme Court challenging the Secretary's action and seeking to restore the title chosen by the People's representatives. The proposed amendment was important because, if adopted, it would amend the Minnesota Constitution to affirm the State's long-standing definition of marriage—a union between one man and one woman. The title chosen by the Legislature reflected this key purpose by reading "Recognition of Marriage Solely Between One Man and One Woman." The Secretary's unilateral title, however, distorted the purpose of the amendment with the aim of imposing his personal views on the voters by reading "Limiting the Status of Marriage to Opposite Sex Couples." The Minnesota Supreme Court agreed with ActRight Legal Foundation's clients, holding that the Secretary exceeded his constitutional authority and violated the separation of powers doctrine by usurping the exclusive roll of the Legislature and the People in amending the Minnesota Constitution.

8) Mary Kiffmeyer, et al. v. Mark Ritchie, et al. (Minnesota Supreme Court)

The Minnesota Constitution vests in the Minnesota Legislature and the People the exclusive right to amend the Minnesota Constitution. Yet during the summer of 2012, the Minnesota Secretary of State unilaterally changed the ballot question title for a proposed amendment to the Minnesota Constitution from the title duly proposed and adopted by the Minnesota Legislature to one of his own choosing. ActRight Legal Foundation assisted a coalition of state legislators and proponents of the proposed amendment filed a petition in the Minnesota Supreme Court challenging the Secretary's action and seeking to restore the title chosen by the People's representatives. This proposed amendment was important because, if adopted, it would amend the Minnesota Constitution to require all voters to present photo identification prior to voting. The title chosen by the Legislature reflected this key purpose by reading "Photo Identification Required for Voting." The Secretary's unilateral title, however, distorted the purpose of the amendment with the aim of imposing his personal views on the voters by reading "Changes to In-Person & Absentee Voting & Voter Registration; Provisional Ballots." In August, 2012, the Minnesota Supreme Court agreed with ActRight Legal Foundation's clients, holding that the Secretary exceeded his constitutional authority and violated the separation of powers doctrine by usurping the exclusive roll of the Legislature and the People in amending the Minnesota Constitution.

9) League of Women Voters Minnesota, et al. v. Mark Ritchie, et al. (Minnesota Supreme Court)

Several public interest organizations and individual voters challenged the language selected by the Minnesota Legislature for a ballot question concerning a proposed amendment to the Minnesota Constitution that would, if adopted, require all voters to present photo identification prior to voting, thereby protecting the integrity of the democratic process for all Minnesota citizens. Before the Minnesota Supreme Court, ActRight Legal Foundation represented Minnesota Majority, a nonprofit social welfare corporation that had been actively involved in successfully placing the voter identification amendment on the ballot. Minnesota Majority filed an amicus curiae brief, urging the court to uphold the Legislature's chosen language. In August, 2012, the Minnesota Supreme Court agreed with Minnesota Majority and rejected the challenge. This victory ensured that each Minnesota citizen was able to exercise his or her right to vote on a constitutional amendment that had been duly proposed by the citizenry's elected representatives.

10) National Organization for Marriage v. Kurt S. Browning, et al. (U.S. District Court for the N.D. of Florida)

During the 2010 federal mid-term election campaign, the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, planned to run radio, television and Internet ads in Florida that would inform the public of various legislative candidates' views on marriage. However, NOM did not run the ads out of concern that doing so would make it an "electioneering-communication organization" under Florida campaign law and, therefore, subject it to myriad and onerous statutory registration, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements that impose burdens on NOM's intended campaign activities. NOM filed suit, asking the federal court to determine that its intended activities do not make it an electioneering-communication organization, and that the First Amendment permits it to speak freely about political candidates and issues without reporting its campaign activity to the state. The district court granted summary judgment to the defendants, holding the challenged statutes valid. NOM appealed the decision to the Eleventh Circuit Court of Appeals. ActRight Legal Foundation came on as lead counsel in April 2012 and argued the appeal on NOM's behalf. On May 17, 2012, the Eleventh Circuit affirmed the district court's decision and NOM did not seek review at the United States Supreme Court.

11) National Organization for Marriage v. John Daluz, et al. (U.S. District Court for the District of Rhode Island)

During the 2010 federal mid-term election campaign, the National Organization for Marriage ("NOM"), a non-profit organization dedicated to preserving marriage as the union of one man and one woman, planned to run radio, television and Internet ads in Rhode Island that would inform the public of various legislative candidates' views on marriage. However, NOM did not run the ads out of concern that doing so would make it a "political action committee" under Rhode Island campaign law and, therefore, subject it to myriad and onerous statutory registration, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements that impose burdens on NOM's intended campaign activities. NOM filed suit, asking the federal court to determine that its intended activities do not make it a political action committee, and that the First Amendment permits it to speak freely about political candidates and issues without reporting its campaign activity to the state. Because the defendants assured NOM it could engage in its desired speech without registering as a PAC, NOM's request for preliminary injunctive relief was limited to the requirement that it publicly report all independent expenditures exceeding $100 in value. The district court found the burdens imposed on NOM's speech by this requirement were justified by a countervailing government interest. NOM appealed to the First Circuit Court of Appeals, which affirmed the district court's decision to deny NOM injunctive relief. ActRight Legal Foundation came on as lead counsel in April 2012. Due to prevailing Circuit precedent, NOM voluntarily dismissed the case without prejudice on June 21, 2012.
